*is our moment,
our once in a lifetime*

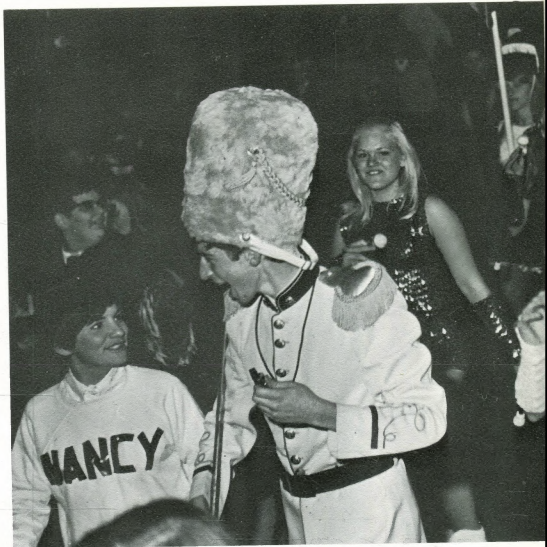

Accompanied by the victory cadence, jubilant
Pioneers begin the parade home.

As she marches in the Fourth of July parade, Audrey Buksar's smile reveals her pride in being a Pom-Pon girl.

Faces of two freshmen betray the sober importance of receiving one's first high school report card.

Future moments hold great

"Remember all the fun . . . !" With the flourish of a pen, a memory of a high school friendship becomes indelible.

After an important football gain, sharing spontaneous elation takes precedence as time, for a moment, becomes frozen.

With the courage of true Clark-ites, we delve into the future, uncertain, yet unafraid. Disappointments may dampen our hopes, but only for a moment. Despair quickly dissolves into enthusiasm with the realization that future moments and new opportunities exist.

To be the person we each want to be involves individual enterprise tempered with cooperation, conformity, and dependence. Somehow, the vast amount of moments must be organized into a meaningful past. We ponder problems to find satisfying solutions, and determination to remake the world fires us with ambition.

This is our moment, our once in a lifetime. Nothing will stop us; we are destined to accomplish great things.

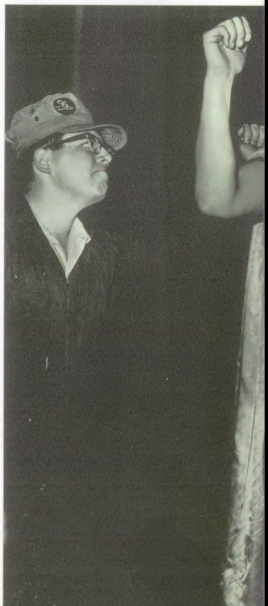

Individual achievements strengthen

Pondering what they can purchase with the money they have, hungry Clarkites await their turn in the lunch line.

Daily raising and lowering of the flag is the responsibility of Clark students.

Clark unity

Individuality marked each Clarkite as he stamped his identity into the ever-changing pattern of school life.

For one student, school might have meant an academic schedule of Physics, Advanced Algebra, third year Spanish, and English, while for another Concert Choir, Band, Publications and Student Council might have comprised the bulk of his schedule.

Although Wednesdays meant activities open to everyone, one student's choice might have been a language club, as another's time was taken by GAC or Booster Club.

But as unique as it was for each person, school unified all the students with a powerful bond of pride and a sense of common, over-all purpose of preparation for the future.

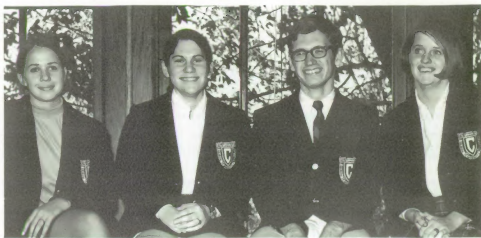

To open the year with "Convention Week," Student Council members decorated Clark halls with campaign posters promoting students, teachers, and even administration.

"Nothing, but nothing, is more powerful than a locomotive," cries Engineer Dave Krall to Super-Tuna Paul Strabavy.

New routines were an important product of Sue Lukacsek and Karen Trelinski's week of hard work at Purdue University.

In an effort to learn from others, Manlee Ogren, Susy Curevitz, George Halik, and Roseanne Holmes spent a week at the Indiana University Leadership Conference.

Special interests delved into during Yearbook editors, Jan Marcisz and Claudia Dickey, worked two weeks at Ball State University constructing the foundation for the 1969 Powder Horn.

Already working toward a degree in music, Sara Kaplan studied French horn at IU.

Newswomen Sally Winner, Leslie Weiner, Pat Ruf, and Chris Ollo discovered new techniques at Ball State and Wisconsin universities.

Spike Murphree, John Shields, Jack Klasen, Phil Lund, and Frank Foreman expanded gymnastic abilities at the National Summer Palaestrum in Traverse City, Michigan.

Gaining new ideas for future publications was the purpose of summer journalistic institutes.

Twirlers, gymnasts, and cheerleaders took advantage of specialized camps in their areas. Through the efforts of the National Science Foundation, students were able to study scientific topics. Fine arts was another topic of interest as art and music skills were mastered. For the third year, audio-visual members attended the AVO convention.

Communication was stressed at the institutes held for Student Council and Girls' and Boys' State representatives.

At an audio-visual convention, Brian Olds was introduced to more modern equipment.

Carol Moynihan, Bob Talabay, Pete Hruskoci, Silly Winner, and Spike Murphree set up mock governments at Indiana University.

To perfect cheering skills, Debby Troksa, Lynn Sotak, Lillian Bellovich, and Carol Moynihan attended the Smith-Walbridge Camp.

Kansas, Purdue, and Western Michigan universities provided an opportunity for Pete Brandman, Pete Stecy, Debbie Svitek, Cindy Hric, and Cindy Gaspar to delve into diversified scientific fields and sample college life.

Seniors take honors in a Tiger roast

Conforming with the theme of cartoon heroes, Clarkites worked for perfection in every aspect of the Homecoming activities.

Diligent Booster Club members sacrificed hours of sleep to assemble a display on the school lawn. A spider web and cartoon characters proclaimed, "Our Super Heroes Will Entangle The Tigers."

The traditional pep assembly ignited school-wide enthusiasm. Seniors captured honors in the yell contest as well as the homeroom sign contest. "Lockey and His Friends," the Senior Skit, added comic relief to the atmosphere. Finally, in glaring silence, the queen was announced.

That evening, a tension-filled audience watched the team of "Super-Heroes" score a winning touchdown in the final moments of play to climax one memorable event: Homecoming.

Under King Alvin's protection, Miss Homecoming joins the pre-victory celebration during the senior skit.

Reigning over Homecoming festivities, Queen Linda Seth and attendants Teresa Mierwa and Carol Zmiga, seniors; Patty Matura, junior; Marie Zdzankiewicz, sophomore; and Cindy Spanburg, freshman, added a regal touch.

Inactive, but determined, these Pioneers await a chance to get on the field and match their wits with the Tiger squad.

After three years of unsuccessful attempts, the Class of 1969's final float resulted in a first place ribbon.

Shopping and enjoying German culture proves a rewarding experience for Jeanie Grinstead.

A taste of Europe was relished by four Clarkites this past summer.

Jeanie Grinstead, who was accepted by the IU Honors Program, lived with a German family for eight weeks.

Three Latin students, Jeff Justak, Suzie Saliga, and Gail Walker were introduced to the European way of life through the International Cultural Exchange School.

Washington tourists examine historical documents guarded in the National Archives.

Adventurous Clarkites trek eastward

Climbing the steps of the Washington Monument, watching a Rockettes' stage show—these experiences linger with students on the Washington, D.C.-New York trip.

In Washington, Clarkites toured the White House and journeyed on to Arlington National Cemetery. The trip progressed to New York for a touch of excitement at the Statue of Liberty and a taste of culture at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

New York's Statue of Liberty inspired students to review their natural born freedoms.

Clarkites discussed the 1968 elections as they toured the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C.

Dance and dress stimulate

Current fashion and dances, though well-defined, still allowed for interpretation. Chunkiness characterized girls' shoes, while guys wore belted styles, or wing tips. Males donned CPO jackets, fisherman knit sweaters, and turtlenecks. Femininity, evident in frilly blouses and dirndl skirts, contrasted with the stiff look of antique leather separates for girls.

Vests were popular with everyone.

"Anything goes" governed the way students reacted to the pulsating beat at dances. Dancing became more creative and individual, as Clarkites did the "tighten' up," the "four corners," and countless variations of the two. With looser movement prevailing, 1968-1969 saw more boys dancing than ever before.

Following the current fashion trends, these Clarkites display the mode of classroom attire for the 1968-1969 school year.

Through his interpretation of a popular song, Bob Gripp sets the mood for a dance.

Saying good-bye to the old Student Council officers and welcoming the new is accented by the resounding beat of the Hartford Convention performing at the Inaugural Ball.

Moving figures and shadows prove that dancing can be an expression of communication or an emotional outlet in any surroundings.

Caesar's Rome lives again in 1968 on Clark's stage

With exuberant voices, two Roman soldiers praise their beloved country.

"Can a determined group of non-conformists rebel against the establishment?" This question was examined in the production of Clark High's annual all-school play, Androcles and the Lion, under the direction of Miss Carol Kramsky.

By decree of the pagan Caesar, all the Christians in Rome were to be thrown to the lion for their religious beliefs. Androcles, a Christian, had already met the lion in the woods where he removed a thorn from its paw. Upon seeing Androcles, the lion remembered the favor and spared the lives of the Christians. They gained the sympathy of the hardened Caesar and realized a new religious freedom all because of Androcles' love for animals.

With a combination of psychedelic costumes and protest songs, the familiar play by George Bernard Shaw was transformed into a modern hippy happening.

Lavinia prays that the lives of her imprisoned companions be spared.

Disregarding the threats of the Centurian, Christian women gossip among themselves.

Lentalus, cowering from the rage of the hot-tempered Ferrovius, falls to the ground.

Striped uniforms and army helmets give Roman persecutors a link to the present.

Plans are made for discreet burial of a body in the cellar by Abby and Martha Brewster and their brother, Teddy.

Juniors portray proficient poisoners

Arsenic and Old Lace, the first play effort of Mr. Richard Capio, brought comedy to the Clark stage in this year's Junior Class play.

Act one introduced Abigail and Martha Brewster, two sweet, old spinsters, and their benignly insane nephew Teddy, who believed he was Theodore Roosevelt. Quite by accident, another nephew, Mortimer, discovered a body which Abby and Martha, out of the charity of their hearts, had poisoned. The arrival of the black sheep of the family, Jonathan, and his partner in crime, Dr. Herman Einstein, complicated affairs.

Act two saw the Brewster home as a hideout and graveyard, while Elaine Harper, Mortimer's fiancée, suffered through the comical confusion.

In the last scene, Jonathan and Dr. Einstein were finally apprehended and Abby, Martha, and Teddy all made a new home at Happy Dale Sanitarium.

Old family differences result in a rather tight situation for Mortimer as his brother Jonathan and Dr. Einstein prepare him for further abuse.

Music, French decor leave fond memories

In elegance and grace, Linda Lacinski arrives at the Shoreland Hotel.

French-inspired, the Shoreland Hotel was transformed into a scene of elegance for the 1968 Clark Prom.

Couples were seated for dinner in the Louis XIV Ballroom, as strolling musicians serenaded. Bob Roberts and his Orchestra enhanced the night with the beautiful ballad, "More."

The New Colony Six, playing popular music, brought to a close an evening to be remembered "Longer Than Always."

Between dances, Junior Class sponsors Mr. Majcher and Mrs. Snider, and their spouses, reflect pride in the efforts of their class.

Graduates fit their 'part' in the vast puzzle of life

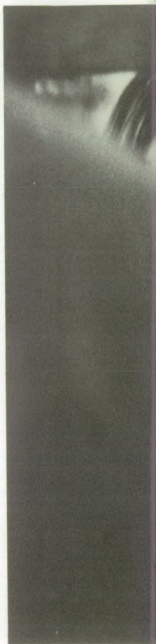

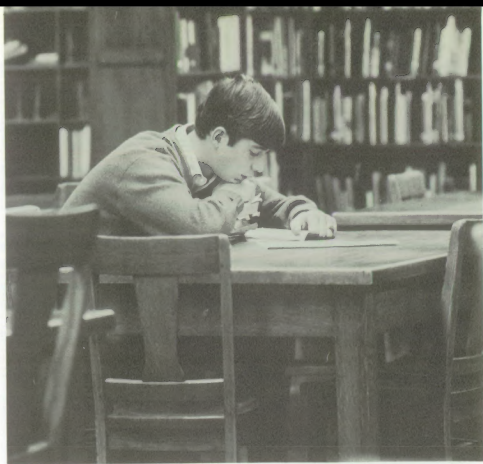

Thoughtful guidance and counseling prepares Bob Hendry for future college studies.

Perseverance and the willingness to learn marked them as students.

Part of an exploding generation, they questioned and examined, trying to find truth. Anxiety tampered their weaknesses, but they learned to be strong. From their knowledge, they began to mold a shapeless future.

The graduates, united in hope, divided by individual goals, awaited the chance that would satisfy their desire to "accomplish great things."

Moments ago they were seniors. Now they are alumni, eager to face the future.

While listening to a lecture, students attempt to jot down important facts for future use in reviewing for a test.

Steadying the mirror, sophomore Bob Novak looks on as Greg Breclaw demonstrates to the class that a "close shave" requires a skillful hand.

backbone for other spheres of learning

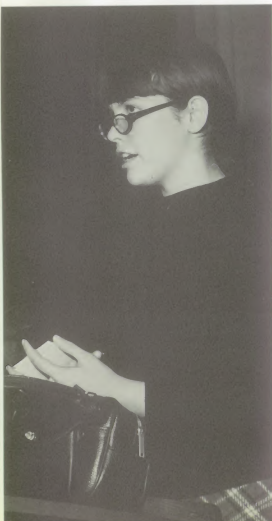

Attempting to give students a full-scale introduction to literature and language, each class experimented with some phase of outside reading. Freshmen learned many basic grammar techniques while studying novels like Ivanhoe and Hiroshima. A concentration on speech attempted to renew sophomore confidence. Julius Caesar and The Tale of Two Cities were on their list of reading material. American authors challenged junior minds as they discussed the symbolism of various works as Moby Dick and The Scarlet Letter. Seniors began with Anglo-Saxon poetry and progressed to the writings of the modern author. Students experimented with styles of writing and gained much composition experience with frequent themes.

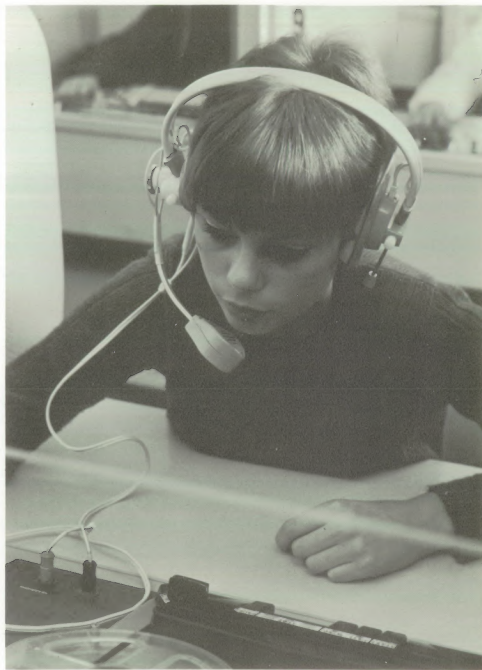

In order to bring English to life, students in the department travelled to Chicago to see the modern version of Romeo and Juliet.

With an air of resolution, Carol Moynihan portrays a campus president trying to calm agitated listeners.

Reliving the fairy tale, Cinderella, seniors Cindy Gaspar, Sherry Milligan, and Tom Kontol show that English class can be more than textbooks and compositions.

Tapes in the language lab give Alice Kirby a chance to exercise her oral skills in German.

Foreign lands

The spirit of the French Revolution is exemplified by Chris Berland and Jeff Bauer.

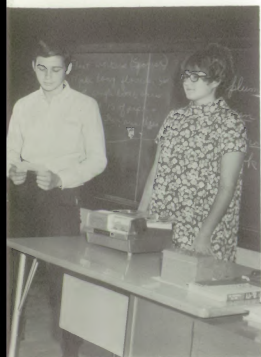

Spanish influences enter the students' lives through tapes and supplementary texts.

By using a variety of supplementary materials, the language department deepened and broadened opportunities for advancement.

While seated in the language lab, a student was able to listen to a prepared tape of a foreign language. This aided him in speaking more fluently.

Visual aids were indispensable in making a language easier to learn. Background material of countries and their peoples was presented through filmstrips and pictures.

Frequently, additional texts were referred to because of their importance in aiding the student.

become familiar through four languages

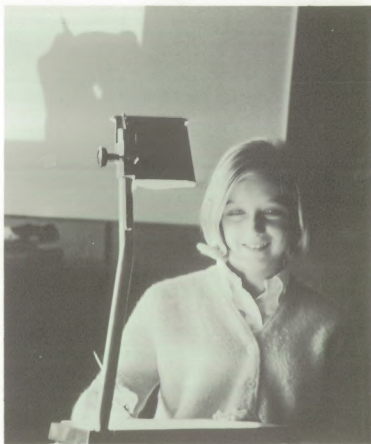

Latin scholars Phil Dunn and Brian Olds learn not only the language, but also the cultural aspects of ancient Rome.

Math stresses the practical application

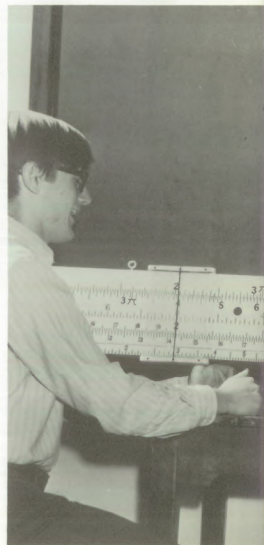

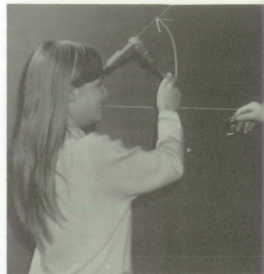

Achievements in the Math department were accomplished through the use of proper logic and clear thinking.

Academic Math courses were offered at four levels. Freshmen struggled through first year Algebra, attempting to understand the purpose of equations. Sophomores continued with Geometry, learning theorems and working with proofs. As the juniors progressed to Advanced Algebra, they were exposed to the principles of the slide rule, imaginary numbers, and logarithms. Seniors concluded their high school Math with Trigonometry. A taste of college algebra was introduced as students studied the processes of mathematical logic and circular functions.

"Playing teacher", Kathy Sagala attempts to show her Algebra class how to solve an equation with the use of an overhead projector.

Through use of a large scale model, work on the slide rule becomes a pleasure.

With the help of scale models and charts, Biology students examine the structures of different species of animals and plants.

Science Department runs the gamut with

To instill in the student an understanding of science, classes were offered at all levels.

General Science gave a foundation of knowledge to those students who felt they were not ready for Biology. The Health and Safety course provided an opportunity to learn about the physical, social, mental, and emotional well-being of the individual. Biology classes made use of the new lab facilities. Physiology was offered in summer Advanced Biology. The geological history of the earth and its relationship to the universe was the subject of the Earth Science course.

Now within reach, the moon represents a prime interest for Earth Science students.

Becoming familiar with the new General Science lab equipment requires background reading in the course text.

Health and Safety students can examine and learn the parts of the eye by using a plastic scale model.

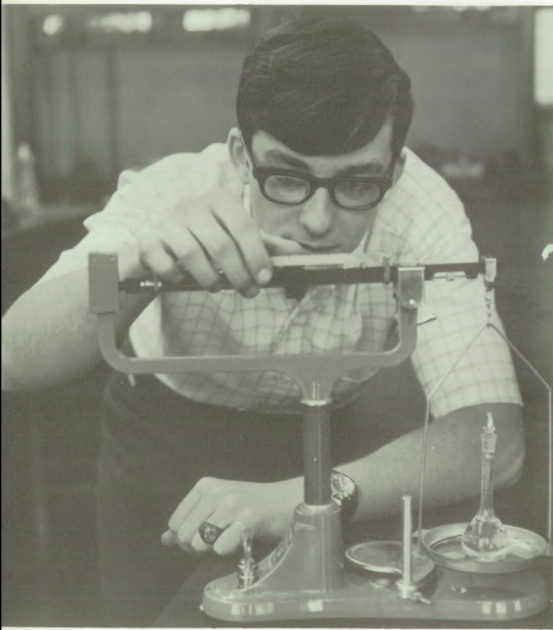

Advanced Chemistry offers new horizons

Learning to analyze situations in a scientific manner was a concept that was stressed in both the Physics and Chemistry classes.

Juniors taking Physics grasped valuable principles of matter and energy by studying electricity, light, electro-magnetism, nuclear physics, and mechanics.

For the first time, seniors were offered an accelerated Chemistry course, in addition to a basic level course. Elements and compounds, their properties and uses, were the basis of study.

In both classes, experimentation was proof of the application of science to the modern world.

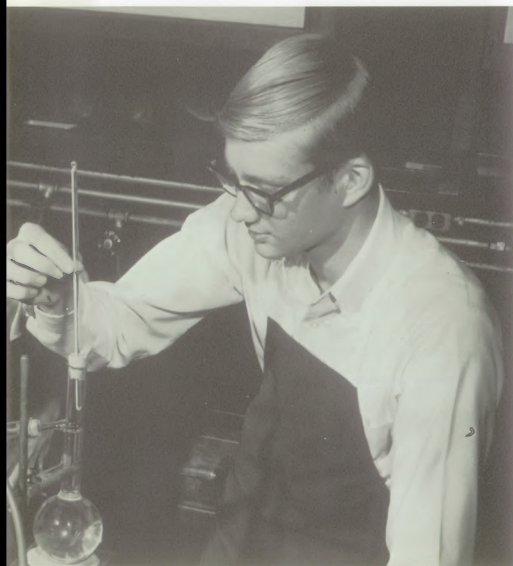

Bob Vavrek discovers that a slight movement of a scale on a single pan balance can mean the difference between a faulty and an accurate chemistry measurement.

Unfamiliarity with the metric system puzzles Physics students during primary experiments.

Advanced Chemistry students Bill Pruzin and Tom Pykosz master the process of distillation.

Yesterday and today, the world and its

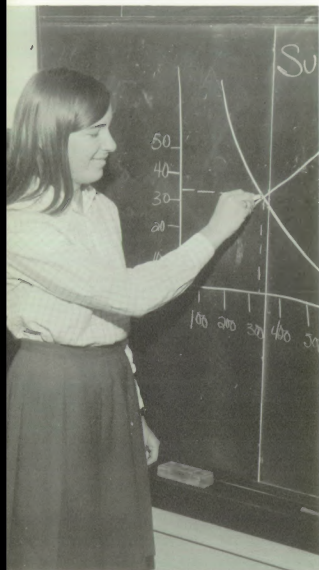

Through class participation and discussion, new knowledge about society unfolded in Social Studies.

With the use of current magazine articles, students were presented with more than textbook information in History, Economics, and Government. Class discussion sought to stimulate the mind of the student as he was given facts. Debate was often employed as a means of challenging statements.

To allow students to study society more closely, the elective courses of Sociology and Contemporary History were offered.

Customs and cultures of various social groups in the world were brought into view for students through Geography.

Clark rings with music for the masses

Providing almost a third of the student body with the opportunity for self-expression, Clark's music department consisted of three distinct divisions.

The Choral department, composed of Girls' and Boys' Choruses, Mixed Glee Club, Girls' Choir, Concert Choir, and various ensembles, achieved the highest enrollment of all elective courses with 297 members.

When not performing at football and basketball games, Band members were busy with parade routines and concert programs. Though an elective course, Band was able to attain a membership of 68.

Another channel of music appreciation was open to students through participation in Orchestra. Members performed in three concerts during the course of the year.

Tomorrow's homemakers prepare today

Whether patching a pair of pants or setting the table for an afternoon luncheon, experience is a must for a successful homemaker.

In the Foods department, each day brought a new adventure as students learned the proper methods of cooking a tasty meal.

To aid students in the Clothing department, three new sewing machines were purchased. Learning to keep up with fashion trends while selecting practical material and patterns was the aim of every Clark seamstress.

Aside from cooking and sewing, Family Living and Home Management taught students how to cope with problems that face the average homemaker.

Unlimited patience aids Virginia Bacon in becoming an experienced seamstress.

Emphasis centered on individual development in girls' Physical Education, under Jean Tolchinsky. Gymnastics, a sport which allowed for personal improvement, kept the girls' division working hard. Parallel bars, the horse, and trampoline were employed in testing physical capabilities. Group sports remained routine.

Expanding the sports program, Coach Johnson introduced bait casting techniques, weight training, trap shooting, and hunting. While striving for individual development in gym, Jerry Deluna, Bob Strabavy, and Dave Turner won awards from the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

Industrial Arts extracts hidden talent

Projects of the Industrial Arts classes had one thing in common: practicality. After acquiring the correct basic concepts and methods, both the Shop and Mechanical Drawing classes advanced to the construction of plans and household "odds 'n ends."

Shop students combined safety, skill, and wood to produce such useful items as bowls, bookends, and benches. Extensive furniture repair work helped train future "handymen."

Beginning by sketching bricks, Mechanical Drawing students learned how proportion and accuracy relate to the construction of blueprints.

Ted Mecklin's immediate concern is the completion of the initial steps of his project.

Striving for perfection, John Kramer concentrates on his technique.

Talton Richards cuts out some of the more intricate parts of his shop project with the use of a jigsaw.

Making unusual metal forms, Linda Lacinski and Jane Jankauskas show their individuality.

Firing of clay pottery is one phase of art instruction for Eric Antilla and Peg Vastlak.

Art room becomes the GRC museum of student work

With its brightly painted towel boxes and displays of art work, the Art room was a center of creativity at Clark. Six semesters of Art were offered with study plans ranging from sketching to more intricate construction in the third year.

A sojourn to the Art Institute in Chicago allowed students to observe more professional works.

Jan DeNardo and Nanci King show that concentration is an important factor in capturing the many moods and ideas of art.

Drivers' Ed. helps insure future safety

Through the combined efforts of ten teachers, students began their Drivers' Education course in hope of becoming safe and dependable drivers.

In order to combat the heat of the summer months during the course, an air conditioner was installed in all but one car.

Aside from the routine of behind-the-wheel driving, the student became acquainted with other aspects of driving, from mechanics to safety.

Under Mr. Peterson's watchful eye, drivers learn responsibility for the appearance of a car.

Intent on understanding the mechanics of an automobile, two Drivers' Education students examine the complexities of the engine.

In Journalism, Gayle Sciacero and Kim Banik discover that the ability to type is essential for the production of a newspaper.

Aside from classroom learning, valuable journalistic techniques were introduced to students through the production of a cub edition of the Pioneer News. Tours of WCFL and WJOB radio stations and The Chicago Tribune newspaper plant allowed Clarkites to see professional journalists at work. The value of communication was often the topic of discussion after these tours.

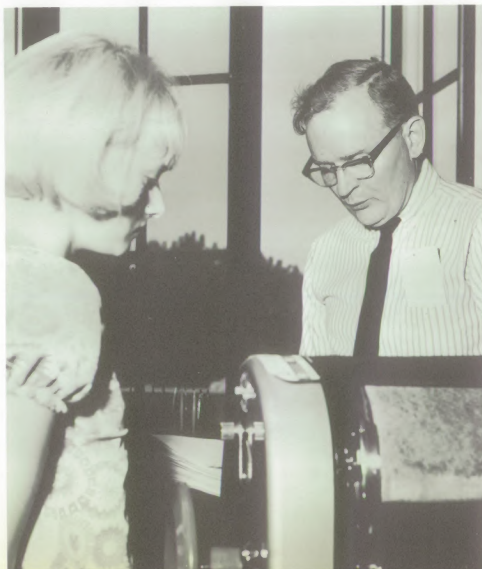

Journalism students were introduced to psychology by an Indiana University student who discussed its relationship to advertising and mass communications.

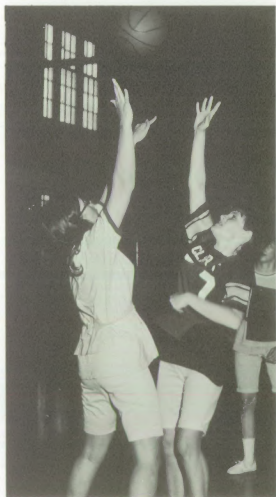

Journalists communicate through modern methods

By creating a journalism notebook, the importance of news media is discovered.

Mr. Muir demonstrates the use of the mimeograph machine in newspaper production to Shirley Dziadosz, Journalism student.

special merit

Four national clubs honored students for various achievements.

National Honor Society recognized those, chosen by the faculty, who attained a B average and portrayed the qualities of leadership and good character. Membership was limited to 10% of the Junior Class and 15% of the Seniors. A symbol of recognition was the gold tassel worn by graduating seniors.

Debating and public speaking students gained membership in the National Forensic League. Prospective members worked for points at speech meets in the fields of original oratory, poetry, extemporaneous speaking, and various forms of debate.

Those interested in stage arts worked with the goal of becoming a Thespian. Membership requirements included 30 hours of stage work and one walk-on part. All phases of stage production were introduced to members of Clark's Troupe No. 1769.

Quill and Scroll, the journalistic honorary, consisted of Pioneer News and Powder Horn staff members who contributed excellent work.

Originality and enthusiasm exemplify '68-'69 Council

Even before the school year began, Student Council thrust itself into action. By sponsoring Clark's first Powder Puff and intersquad football games, it displayed the imagination and initiative that characterized all of its activities.

Students were welcomed back to classes and introduced to a change of self-nomination in homeroom representative selections during "Convention Week."

The Council sponsored a magazine drive, roller-skating party, Field Day and a dance, themed "Those Were the Days," which saw Clarkites return to childhood days of lollipops and Kool-Aid stands.

Also concerned with serious matters, members voted to abolish the Student Review Board.

The Council closed the year with an Inaugural Ball honoring next year's officers.

Through practice and performance, choirs

Characterized by talent and ambition, the choral department with 297 strong began the year with its annual Fall Concert.

Craig Spaulding, an alumnus of the Choral department, performed in an assembly program with the "Singing Hoosiers" in the fall.

Seasonal greetings were extended to all by the choirs, along with the Band and Orchestra, at the Christmas Concert. At this time the Sere-naders sang at many outside engagements including Great Lakes Naval Hospital for the sailors and Christmas

Clarkites climb ladder of vocal music

Structurally, the Choral Department was somewhat different from past years.

Beginning students interested in vocal music joined Girls' and Boys' Chorus. These groups concentrated on learning basic vocal technique and just singing for enjoyment. Mixed Glee Club, a new group meeting daily, was initiated for select freshmen in preparation for entrance to the two choirs of the department.

Tryouts allowed girls from Girls' Chorus and Mixed Glee Club to aspire to Girls' Choir, where music in more parts was studied. This year the choir numbered 70.

Singers from lower groups gained entrance into Concert Choir by audition. This advanced choir had 52 members the first semester, but was increased to 77 in January.

This year saw the beginning of an ensemble of freshman girls. Two groups from Concert Choir remained in existence, Girls' Ensemble, composed of 12 juniors, and the Serenaders, composed of 10 couples.

Orchestra features music for all tastes

Orchestra members learn that attention to the conductor, as well as concentration on the music, is one of the many characteristics that a good musician must acquire.

Orchestra met in two groups this year—the string section practiced every day, with selected members from the Band joining them twice a week.

Mrs. Lane led the group the first semester, with Mr. Schmitt taking over in January. Susy Gurevitz and Chuck Stapke assisted the teachers in the capacity of president and secretary, respectively.

The Christmas Concerto by Corelli and "For Unto Us a Child is Born" by Handel were two of the major works performed in the Christmas concert. In February a winter concert was held jointly with the Band.

Journeying to Valparaiso for an orchestra seminar and special performance climaxed the year.

Football games, which brought intriguing halftime performances, lead to winter projects such as the Christmas parade. Bandsmen were rewarded for the work put into their float by a first-place check of $200. Pep Band members also entertained at the home basketball games.

Along with marching performances, the Band presented three concerts, which featured more difficult arrangements, often of a serious nature.

Adding another first to the Band's list of honors, Sara Kaplan was accepted into the Indiana All-State Band.

Cheerleaders invoke pep and enthusiasm

After spending a strenuous, but rewarding week at Smith-Walbridge Cheering Camp, the Varsity Cheerleaders planned for the coming year.

Organizing pep rallies, aside from leading yells, was their main responsibility. New gimmicks were created to boost spirit and to encourage participation at athletic events. A candlelight pep rally and a victory march against cross-town rival, Whiting, highlighted the year.

The B-Squad, in preparation for their year as Varsity Cheerleaders, backed the Settler team.

Enthusiastically beginning their first year, Freshman Cheerleaders perfected traditional cheers and practiced new ones.

Miss Jean Tolchinsky completed her second year as sponsor.

FRESHMAN CHEERLEADERS—N. Milligan, L. Shimala, C. Troksa, M. Macocha.

During a fourth quarter spurt, Varsity Cheerleaders sparkle with renewed spirit.

With pride, eagerness, and bright smiles, the Twirlers, Pom Pons, and Flag Corps put their talents into all phases of school life.

Their annual dance, with an amusement park theme, caught the fancy of all who attended.

With a major portion of their time being devoted to practice, routines were drilled until perfected.

When football and basketball games paused for half-time shows, the performers held audience attention. Catchy tunes set the pace as batons flew high, and Pom Pons kept the beat.

Their performances at the Latin Club Talent Show brought bright smiles, displayed a high degree of professionalism, and most important, offered enjoyment to all.

Aside from school functions, all three groups performed with the Band in the Fourth of July, Memorial Day, and Christmas parades.

Countless weeks of practice result in a Pom-Pon routine performed with precision and ease.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR AND EDITOR-IN-CHIEF—C. Dickey, J. Marcisz.

Many new ideas worked their way into the 1969 Powder Horn. A three-column layout was used, along with an increased number of informal pictures throughout the class and club sections. Special touches were added by an additional closing page and five extra color pictures. Another new idea was the position of Layout Editor, who took many responsibilities off the editor, leaving her more time for other important work.

The busy year began in August, 1968, when the editors returned from a two-week institute at Ball State, and prepared the foundation for the book. Though deadlines often brought late hours of work, the year sped by, leaving a completed Powder Horn.

Clark's newspaper, the Pioneer News, began its 36th year of reporting activities and sports, while featuring polls and controversial editorials.

Special editions, longer than the weekly paper, included the Back-to-School, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter Editions, plus the Senior Memory Book. These featured more human interest and entertaining articles traditions

Under the guidance of Miss Lynne Ackerman, the Clark German Club enjoyed an impressive membership. The club took part in various activities, such as a tobogganning trip to Palos Park, a successful back-to-school dance, a car wash, and a bake sale. The Christmas party and a trip to German town in Chicago were sources of pleasure and instruction.

Through the year's activities, reports, and lab recordings, the club learned more of the customs and people of Germany.

Claiming the largest membership of all language clubs was the Spanish Club. The Advanced Club was sponsored by Mrs. Maria Encinosa, while Miss Anita Morris was in charge of the Freshman Club.

Highlight of the year proved to be a trip by club members to a Spanish restaurant in Chicago. The annual Christmas party included the breaking of a traditional, gift-filled pintata. In the spring, the club held a bake sale. To end the year, Spanish Club members enjoyed a fun night in the school gym.

Language Clubs' projects instill culture, offer fun

In the fall, Latin Club, sponsored by Mrs. Lillian Wilcox, held a "Get Acquainted" dance and a bake sale in order to donate money to the Language Honors Program.

With the help of Latin Club, the grandeur of Rome became a reality to three Latin students. Auditions open to the entire student body culminated in the club's highlight of the year: the annual Talent Show. The goal this year was to send two more students to Europe with the show's proceeds.

The ever-growing French Club participated in commercial and cultural projects. Under Miss Sandra Sauvain's direction, the club's roster totaled 85—the largest membership in the six-year history of French Club.

Homecoming efforts proved successful as members constructed a first-place float. Other activities were a bake sale, a banquet, a dance sponsored by all language clubs, French Day at the Museum of Science and Industry, a tobogganing excursion, and dinner at a French restaurant.

Ski trip heads list of Forum activities

Though Forum Club did not introduce guest speakers nor initiate business procedures into meetings as many other clubs did, it served a major purpose. It sought to bring enjoyment to its members, as the officers planned activities.

One of the major events of the club was the skiing trip to The Lake of the Four Seasons. The excitement of taking a first skiing lesson left everyone with aching muscles but unforgettable memories.

Flashing cards signify Boosters' goal

Starting with a desire to be the best and ending with the confidence that the year proved so, members of the Booster Club sought to promote school spirit.

The usual pressures of Homecoming week kept the club busy as they constructed the traditional lawn display. This year, a giant television set, along with cartoon character football players, accompanied the traditional "good-luck" horseshoe.

Colorful and eye-catching signs and banners, which were made by creative boosters, were displayed in the halls of the school. The purpose of these constructions was to formulate a winning attitude before a game and to boost the team to victory.

This year's major goal for officers and cabinet was to begin a permanent card section. Shakeroos also added a variation to the cheering block.

A trip to the Purdue-Virginia football game highlighted the year's activities.

Y-Teens and Hi-Y entertain orphans and student body

For Y-Teens, 1968-69 was another year of "doing for others." Donating $25 to World Fellowship, a worldwide organization of the YWCA, led the plan of events. December 20, the day of the annual Christmas party, meant happiness to many orphans from the Carmelite Home for Boys. Each member presented "her" orphan with a gift.

To increase club funds and satisfy the cravings of Clarkites, a potato chip sale was held. As a climax, Y-

Teens gave the Carmelite boys and girls a memorable Easter with an egg hunt. Mrs. Lucy Shacklett and Miss Patricia Walker sponsored the club.

Hi-Y spent the year concentrating on providing entertainment for the student body. Officers were assisted by a several-men cabinet in planning a spring concert by a "rock" group to fill the lull between activities of other clubs. Mr. David Mudd was the club's sponsor.

Through the efforts of Miss Joan Coughlan, sponsor, and the officers, the Future Secretaries' Club arranged for guest speakers at monthly meetings. Former shorthand students from Clark were asked to come back and relate their job experiences to the club. Through these talks, members of the club were able to look into future business openings.

With an awareness of the need for qualified teachers, the Future Teachers of America began their training early. Classroom experience familiarized students with the rewards as well as the frustrations of teaching.

Aside from school meetings, the club met at night. Guest speakers added formality to the meetings, while movies and refreshments presented a lighter touch to the business of the club.

Future Secretaries' officers ask the advice of Miss Coughlan as they make some last-minute additions to the monthly agenda.

Library and Reading Clubs promote books

For the Library Club, participation in the various activities of library service offered an experience in which members learned to work with others. Under the new sponsorship of Mrs. Barbara Dobak and Mr. Charles Mason, the Library Club engaged in a Christmas candle sale to raise funds and one service project for the community.

Reading Club began another year with Mrs. Carol Huber as sponsor. Meetings were characterized by business and reading magazines or utilizing the games in the reading room.

Later in the year, the club held a book fair, the proceeds of which were used to buy equipment for the lab. Plans also included going to Chicago to see a play and a movie.

A happy and well-deserved victory over Whiting in the final game of the season put the Pioneers above the .500 mark. The 1968 Clark football team finished the season with five wins against four losses.

The Pioneers picked up their first win by clipping Munster with a score of 14-13, after which they journeyed to a new Morton field where they captured their second victory against the Governors. A 12-0 defeat to a keyed-up Bishop Noll team and another to E.C. Washington set the record at 2 and 2.

The Pioneers' finest offensive and defensive game resulted with Clark rolling over Gavit 28-0. After suffering a disappointing loss to Hammond High, the team bounced back with a Homecoming win against Tech. The Pioneers then were slapped at E.C. Roosevelt by a score of 23-7. The final game of the season was a typical Clark-Whiting clash with the Pioneers coming out on top, 25-19.

Desire, hard work, and the experienced instruction of Coaches Peterson, Powell, and Williams paid off as the varsity squad completed a 5-4 season.

Post-season honors were awarded to three Clark players. Senior Chris Spanburg was named lineman of the week by The Times after his outstanding defensive play against Munster. Bob Talabay, and Paul Strabavy, also seniors, were named to The Times Tri-City All-Star team while Spanburg received an honorable mention to the same team.

Special recognition goes to the ten seniors who participated in football during all four years. These include Dave Davis, Tom Haig, Barry Hargett, Bob Hendry, Jack Klasen, Andy Miterko, Spike Murphree, Chris Spanburg, Paul Strabavy, and Bob Talabay.

The freshman team did not fare as well winning only one and losing seven. But the b-squad season proved successful with a 3-3-1 record, finishing at .500.

way to an 11-4-1 season

Led by Coach Shields, the Harriers posted an 11-4-1 record this season. The highlights of the season were handing Hobart its only dual defeat of the year and identical record shattering runs by Jerry Stasny and Javier DeLuna, with a time of 9:57 for the two mile.

An early summer running program proved profitable as the season opened with three consecutive victories. Clark then suffered its only dual meet loss to eventual sectional champs, Highland.

In their first quadrangular meet, the Harriers beat Morton and Tech and lost to Hammond High. Clark then journeyed to the Highland Invitational and placed 6th in a field of 32 teams. Clark reached its peak against Hobart, beating the eventual conference champs 28-29, for Hobart's only dual defeat of the year. The Shieldsmen won two meets, tied one, and lost one.

Clark finished 8th in the sectionals and 16th in the LaPorte Invitational as Jerry Stasny participated in the regional meet.

Breaking a long-standing record for the two mile run, Javier DeLuna and Jerry Stasny achieved the time of 9:57, leading the Harriers to a third place finish in the conference.

Important seconds speed by as Joe Domagalski strains for extra energy necessary for a credible performance.

With six lettermen returning to the 1968 tennis squad, the racketmen possessed high expectations for an undefeated season. A pair of extremely close losses thwarted this goal and the Pioneers were forced to settle for a disappointing 5-3 record.

The tennis tigers opened their schedule with a close 2-3 loss to Morton. The netmen then rebounded with successive victories over Valpo and Hobart. Another disappointing defeat was experienced when Tech proved victorious in a 2-3 contest. A successful streak followed as the racketmen surpassed Roosevelt, Washington, and Gavitt, but the final match of the season ended on a bad note with Hammond High on top, 0-5.

Forehand placement proves to be a strong asset for first singles man Chuck Steffel, as he attempts a difficult cross-court shot.

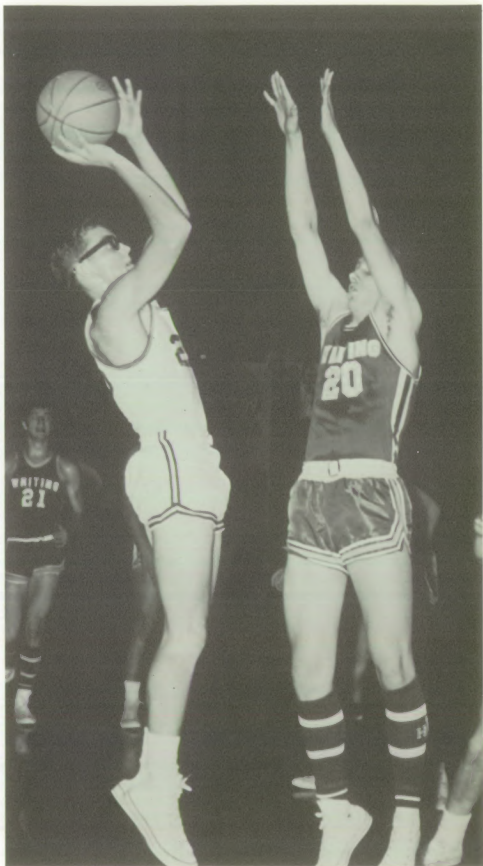

Contributing the best record on the squad, Pete Brandman and Leslie Levin, second doubles team, finish a 7-1 season.

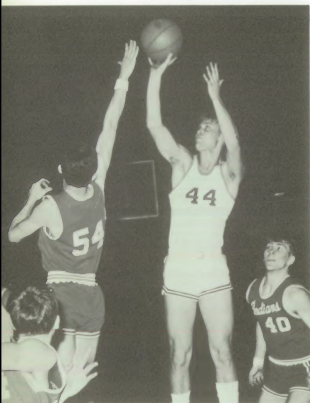

Overtime losses spell disappointment

Although the 1968-69 basketball team had a strong nucleus of returning lettermen, they finished with a disappointing 8-13 record. Highlighting the season were an opening victory over cross-town rival, Whiting and double wins over Gavit. Last minute triumphs over Hobart and Griffith proved rewarding for all involved.

However, offsetting events did occur. Early in the season the roundballers were defeated by a strong Highland team, 60-59. During January, the Pioneers traveled to Munster and returned, five points short of victory. A week later, the team took on the Tech Tigers. The overtime loss, 64-62, proved to be an unlucky omen, as the hardcourt men lost to Tech in the Sectionals, 74-63.

Under the direction of Coach Williamson, the b-squad basketball team finished with a .500 record. Opening the season was the victory over neighboring Whiting, after which the Settlers conquered S.B. Washington. The encounter with Horace Mann followed and began a three game losing streak, as losses to Valparaiso and Highland ensued. The Settlers rebounded, winning five of their next eight games, losing only the Hammond High, Munster, and Tech clashes. To round out the season, the b-squaders defeated Griffith and T.F. North.

Sporting the best record of all teams, the Freshman squad finished with an 11-7 ledger. The first half of the season saw the Homesteaders win seven and lose one, the only blemish coming in a loss to Calumet in the title game in the Calumet Holiday Tourney. The homecourt advantage proved rewarding as the frosh came up on the short end of the score only once, losing to E.C. Roosevelt in the season finale.

One of the team's high scorers, Bob Talabay tries to increase his total by two.

Officially beginning the new season, senior Vinny Shimala jumps against Whiting's center.

Attempting to add one more victory to his win column, sophomore Don Kremaric thwarts his opponent's try for a take down.

Matmen overcome Whiting, Tech; end season in defeat

This year's wrestling team had difficulties putting together a winning season. The season began with a rousing victory over Whiting, 45-11. The Pioneers lost their next seven meets, but broke the losing streak with a victory over Tech. Losses to Morton and Crown Point ended the season on a disappointing note.

Despite the losing season, many grapplers had fine individual records. Dean Price, heavy weight wrestler and one of two seniors on the team, finished 9-10. Junior Eric Antilla had a .500 season with a 6-6 record, while Don Kremaric, a sophomore, had the best individual results, finishing 11-5. Both he and Hoppy Deluna took second place in the Hobart Invitational.

The b-squad team fared somewhat better with a 5-5 ledger. Bob Vanek was undefeated, winning eight matches and tying one.

After a loss to Thornridge, the gymnasts defeated Crown Point, 81-72. Coach Johnson's men then finished second in the ten-team Concord Invitational and lost to Rich Central. Culver, Hillcrest, Elkhart, and Madison Heights all fell to the might of Clark's team, while Concord managed to squeeze by with five points.

Of the four gymnasts who travelled downstate, Frank Foreman took high honors by regaining his state champion tumbling title along with a 10th place in floor exercise. Jack Klasen and Phil Lund placed 6th and 10th respectively on the rings, while Spike Murphree took 7th place on parallel bars. It was a record-breaking season for the 1968 track team. School records were surpassed in nine of the fifteen track and field events. The Pioneers also broke conference, sectional, and city records.

Trackmen boasted a very successful indoor season by beating eleven opponents and losing only once. In both the city and conference indoor meets, Clark placed second.

In the Outdoor Western Division Conference meet, Clark missed taking first place by a heartbreaking one and one-half points. The second place finish, however, was the best a Pioneer squad had ever done. Clark also placed second in the Sectional meet. Losing only to a powerful E.C. Washington team, Coach Powell's well-trained performers placed higher in the Sectional meet than Clark had ever placed before. Again, as in 1967, Clark won its division of the Clark Relays.

One of the track team's strongest events was the mile relay. The four man team broke the all-time Hammond city record with the swift clocking of 3:25.4. The Pioneers' time gained them a sixth place in state competition.

Determination and exhaustion are displayed simultaneously at the moment the relay baton is passed.

despite inexperienced team

With only three returning lettermen, Coach Aldrich's hardballers finished the season with a .500 average. The team was of all new blood except for senior Phil King and juniors Paul Strabavy and Bob Talabay.

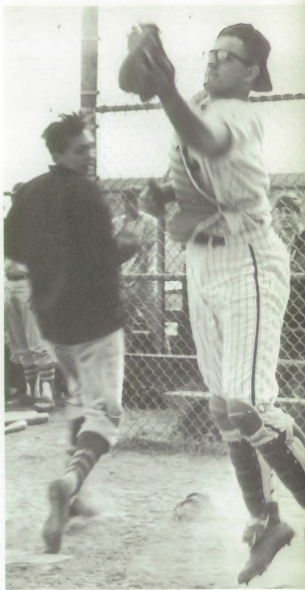

The Pioneers started the season off on the right foot by clipping Washington, 4-3, but then fell to Morton and Roosevelt. The hardballers bounced back with a win over Gavit and then a 4-0 shutout against Tech.

Revenge did prove sweet as Clark rolled over the Whiting Oilers, 7-3 after losing 1-0 at their last encounter. The next game did not end as happily with Hammond High on top, 5-3, but the Pioneers came back with their second win over Washington. After dropping the next two games, the stickmen defeated Gavit for the second time. Clark recorded its last victory against Tech before losing to Whiting and Hammond High.

Clark pitcher Paul Strabavy burns a strike past an opposing Hammond Tech batter.

There is no escape for this opponent as he is caught in a run-down by the Clark defense.

Reaching for a wide throw, Louis ODrobinak shows his determination to make the play.

Golfers struggle through 3-12 season

Inexperience was the key word for the 1968 golf season. Despite the coaching of Mr. Jim Moffit, the team managed to salvage only three victories of the fifteen-match roster. Matches against Hobart, Gary Lew Wallace, and Gary Tolleston proved to be the highlights of the season. With the absence of seniors, juniors occupied the bulk of the playing positions. The first team, consisting of Bob Hendry, Tom Zato, Jim Bartoszek, Paul Kantor and Jerry Gerrard, played most of the matches at Lake Hills golf course. Several matches were held at Wicker Park.

Intense concentration is displayed as Jeff Ciesar contemplates his next move.

Soccer team attains playoff position

Soccer was added as a new sport in 1968. With 25 boys participating, the team ended the regular season with a 3-1 record.

The season started out favorably with two victories over Tech and Cavit. As they entered the championship game, a victory over Hammond High was needed for a first place tie. However, the soccer men lost the final game, 2-0.

The team's success was attributed to the scoring of Ken Solkey and an effective defense.

Of the five Hammond schools, Clark's team finished in second place.

Hustle and teamwork combine to provide the Pioneer soccer squad with a successful season.

With the annual picnic signaling the start of the year, the Girls' Athletic Club swung into action.

Participating in the various sports offered by the club, members earned valuable points toward their numerals, monograms, and letters.

As the end of the year approached, the Mother-Daughter Banquet was held. Awards were presented by Miss Jean Tolchinsky, club sponsor.

C-Club, under the supervision of Mr. Emerson Aldrich and Mr. Ed Shields, spent this year serving the school. C-Club members sold programs and ushered at home basketball games. They also sold popcorn after school. The annual dance was held, at which the C-Club Sweetheart was crowned. The proceeds from the dance helped to pay for the initiation of new members and the banquet in May.

School Board

Dr. Rapp ardently supports the Clark-Hammond High merger.

This year will stand as a landmark in the history of the Hammond School Board. For many weeks the Board was concerned with the Clark-Hammond High issue. The measure was finally approved on November 29, 1968 providing for the merger of the two schools.

Dr. Rapp, having completed another year as superintendent, has added valuable experience to his supervising career of twelve years as principal of Hammond High and two previous years as School City Superintendent.

After years of striving for new auditorium seat covers, Mr. Lockey finally achieved his goal. His dedication to Clark's improvement has strengthened the value of the school.

The five members of the Hammond School Board and Dr. Rapp earnestly discussed merger proposals for Hammond High and Clark.

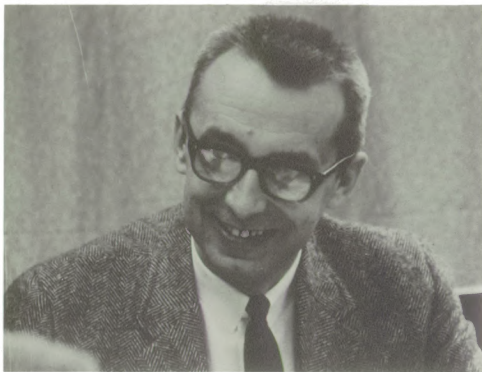

A typical Pioneer greeting to visitors is displayed by Mr. Lockey.

votes 3 to 2 for Clark-HHS merger

As assistant Principal Mr. A.J. Esterhay often found himself in a bind as he searched for substitute teachers during the winter flu epidemic. Hunting and home mechanics fill his out-of-school hours.

Sponsoring the National Honor Society and acting as Dean of Girls were only two of the services rendered by Miss Edna Howe. When not guiding students in college choices, she reads and listens to music.

Mr. Steve Stavros successfully closed his second year as Dean of Students. A chairmanship of the school safety committee filled much of his time, but he enjoys athletic events and landscaping.

As Director of Curriculum, Mr. Esterhay is responsible for scheduling subjects.

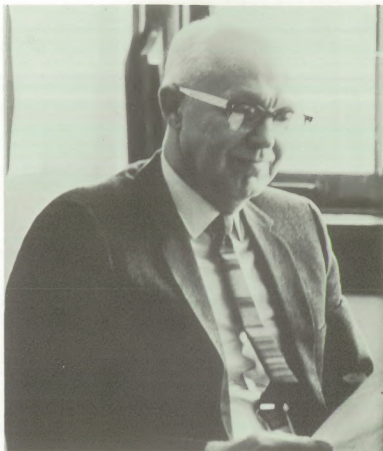

Seeking information, freshmen students turn to Miss Howe for guidance.

With the help of previous typing experience, Mr. Stavros completes one of many long forms.

School hours find Mr. Martin studying seniors' college applications.

Counseling the Class of 1969 occupied the time of Mr. Edwin Martin. Having received his training in Chemistry and Physics at Indiana State University, Mr. Martin entered his present position in 1963. Any spare time is filled with fishing and gardening. He now eyes the prospect of welcoming a new class next year.

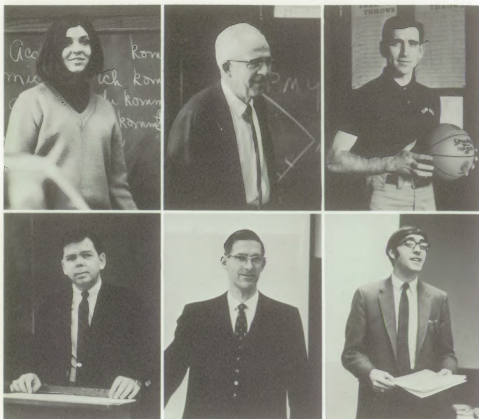

Having his article published highlighted the career of Mr. Raymond Buell. Earning his B.S. and M.S. degrees at Indiana State University, Mr. Buell devoted much of his time to counseling the Class of 1970. Other hours were filled helping Mr. Martin advise the Class of 1971.

Miss Doris I. Myers is another Indiana State University alumna. Formerly a girls' Physical Education instructor, Miss Myers guided the Class of 1972. Her interests include traveling and sports.

Counseling and elementary Physical Education form an active day for Miss Doris Myers.

Willing to help any student, Mr. Buell concentrates on problems concerning the Class of 1970.

Personnel serve students and faculty

Skilled in preparing meals for large groups, the cafeteria staff provided daily meals for students and faculty members. Well-equipped, modern kitchens increased their efficiency.

Along with their numerous tasks, the janitors could always be depended upon to stay late after Clark dances or provide assistance in emergency situations. Their dedication resulted in a well-kept environment for learning.

The office, hub of school activity, was continuously filled with information-seeking students. Club and class treasurers depended on the office vault for the safekeeping of funds.

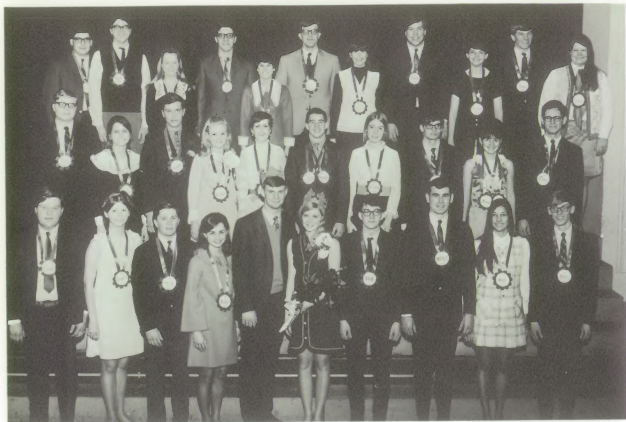

Prepared to meet the rush, the cafeteria staff pauses before the lunch hour bell rings.

Filling the information gap between faculty and students efficiently and effectively is the friendly office staff.

Clark is maintained by a custodial staff headed by Fritz Krause and Chester Centkowski.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Doris Snider and Mr. Richard Majcher, members of the Class of 1969 started their high school careers with the dance, "Good News Week."

Sophomore year brought class rings and the class dance, "Happiness Is . . .," which climaxed "Go Steady Week." A candy sale was also held to boost the treasury.

The junior year included two dances, "Charlie Brown in Wonderland," featuring Tibbar, and a Mardi Gras. The Prom, "Longer Than Always," was held at the Shoreland Hotel with the New Colony Six performing afterwards.

In their final year, the Seniors created a first place Homecoming float. Highlighting the year were the dance, "Happiness Was . . .," Senior Banquet, baccalaureate, and finally, graduation.

Personal achievements during the years

As she prepares to take notes, Salutatorian Cindy Hric concentrates on getting the most out of her reading.

During their last year at Clark, members of the Class of 1969 were honored in various capacities.

Leading the class scholastically were Spike Murphree, valedictorian, and Cindy Hric, salutatorian.

Cindy Hric was also chosen as the recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution award for her scholarship and citizenship. Candidates were nominated by classmates, and the faculty had the final vote.

Four seniors were named Com-mended Scholars by the National Merit Commission. These students ranked in the top six percent of all students taking the test.

Eight boys showing leadership and maintaining high grade averages were named Junior Rotarians. Each boy attended weekly Hammond Rotary meetings for a month, listening to guest speakers and conferring with Rotarians from other schools.

TERI SHASTA SCHMIDT passed away on November 18, 1968, as the result of cystic fibrosis. During her twelve years at Clark, she participated in Latin, German, Booster, Forum, and Biology Clubs and helped on the Pioneer News staff. Teri's favorites during the school days were her English and Social Studies classes and much of her spare time was filled with sewing and reading. Another interest was medicine, a subject which she planned to study at Indiana University.

With the beginning of the new school year, the Junior class began to create its float for Homecoming. Gradually it took the shape of a roadrunner and captured a second place ribbon.

In celebration of Sadie Hawkins Day, the class sponsored a turnabout dance. Marriage licenses were issued, Kickapoo juice spiced the refreshments, and an ideal Daisy Mae and 'Lil Abner, Linda Mottet and Mike Johnson, were chosen.

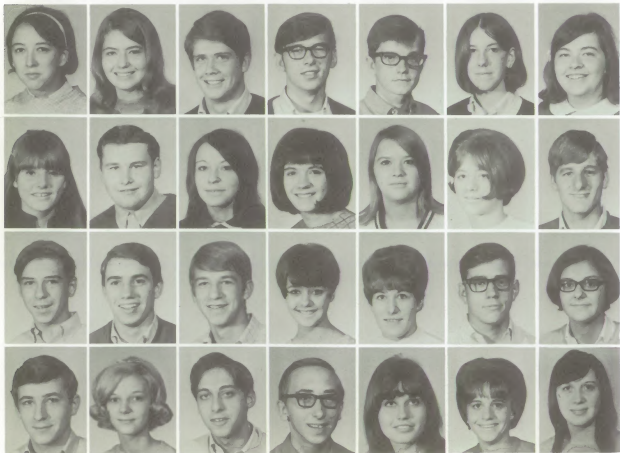

Arsenic and Old Lace, the class play, brought scar-faced Jonathan Brewster and two gentle, but poisonous old ladies to Clark's stage.

The annual prom was held at the Sherwood Club, with an after-prom party at Tiebel's.

BRUCE EDWARD RUDZINSKI died on July 7, 1968 as the result of an auto accident. Bruce had been active in school affairs since eighth grade, when he came to Clark from St. John the Baptist School.

His main interest being cameras, Bruce hoped to be a free-lance photographer. During his two years at Clark, he was an active member of Photography Club and greatly contributed to the Powder Horn as a staff photographer.

By constructing their entry in Homecoming float competition, the Class of 1971 began their class activities. The Robertsdale Fire Station was the site of many days of hard work. A giant Bam-Bam, the cartoon cave-man, was portrayed walloping a tiger in "Bam Those Tigers." Disappointingly, the float placed third, after the Senior and Junior entries.

In December, Sophomores purchased their class rings, adding to class unity. Several money-making projects were planned to help supplement their treasury. This money, in addition to funds raised at their dance, was set aside to help finance their future prom.

Mr. Hriso and Mr. Watkins continued their helpful sponsorship.

'Popeye', the

Quickly adapting themselves to high school life, the Class of '72 actively took part in the Homecoming festivities. They selected Cindy Spanburg to represent them in the Queen's Court and entered their float "Can Those Tigers" in the parade.

The first dance of the new year, "Enchant Your Troubles Away," provided an entertaining evening. It was the Freshman Class' initial money-making project of the year. Featuring the "Enchanters," a twelve member band, the dance was a financial success.

This year, two newcomers to Clark, Miss Ackerman and Mr. Mudd, took on the responsibility of sponsoring the class.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE

An opportunity to serve awaits industrious young men and women at Northern Indiana Public Service Company. As one of the top gas and electric distribution utilities in the United States, NIPSCO is constantly looking for new processes and methods of efficient operation. These include atomic power generation, extra high voltage transmission, underground electric distribution, computerized system planning, underground storage of natural gas, community analyses and electronic data processing.

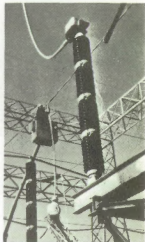

Ready to grow with a growing company?

IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF GROWTH

NIPSCO is one of the highest-paying utilities in the State of Indiana. Its attractive employee benefit package—tuition refund plan, vacations, holidays, life insurance, comprehensive medical insurance, pensions, etc.—provides an atmosphere for individual growth. Fifteen leading colleges and universities are strategically located throughout its service area with others available in the greater Chicago area. Drop in. We'll be glad to talk jobs with you.

To everyone involved, we say thank you

Cooperation between advisors and editors is the key to yearbook production.

No yearbook is completed by the editors alone. During the past year, many people have contributed to the Powder Horn, but did not receive sufficient recognition. One of these people is Mr. George Muir, advisor, who patiently helped us during our late-hour deadlines. Also, Mr. Al Schlegelmilch, our representative from Paragon Yearbooks, who was always available to answer our many questions. Root Photographers deserve a grateful thanks for all the work they have done for us.

Around school, we would like to thank everyone, from the janitresses, who worked around us on nights and weekends, to the faculty, who put up with picture schedules that constantly interrupted class.

A final thanks goes to everyone who helped us in any way, from the official staff members, to the boys who moved the risers.

...And so, a moment of time has passed

Approval is shown as Claudia Dickey and Jan Marcisz browse through the 1969 Powder Horn.

Dreams and desires are part of everyone's life. The 1969 Powder Horn is our dream in reality.

For one year, this book has dominated our lives. It slowly crept in with summer fun, it encompassed much of our free time, and it even invaded the classroom. Now that this project is completed, an unfamiliar interval of leisure fills our day.

Around deadline weeks, the year-book was a lifetime job, but now that it is completed, we realize only a moment has passed. Yet, this experience will never be forgotten because, this was our moment, our once in a lifetime. Let us move on to the next.

Jan Marcisz

Lights burn into the night in silent tribute to long hours spent working toward a goal.

Claudia Dickey

Mr. Ed, always seeming to have the final word, signals the conclusion of another momentous Clark activity.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office of National Statistics 2000). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 15.5 million by 2020, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 8.5 million (Office of National Statistics 2000). The increase in the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to be due to a combination of factors, including a decline in the birth rate, a decline in the death rate, and a decline in the rate of emigration.

The increase in the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to have a significant impact on the UK's health and social care system. The number of people aged 65 and over who are in need of health and social care services is expected to increase significantly in the coming years. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that older people are more likely to have chronic health conditions, and the fact that older people are more likely to need help with everyday tasks. The increase in the number of people aged 65 and over is also expected to have a significant impact on the UK's economy. The number of people aged 65 and over who are in the workforce is expected to decline significantly in the coming years, which will lead to a shortage of workers in many sectors.

The increase in the number of people aged 65 and over is also expected to have a significant impact on the UK's housing market. The number of people aged 65 and over who own their own home is expected to decline significantly in the coming years, which will lead to a shortage of homes for older people. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that older people are more likely to have a lower income, and the fact that older people are more likely to need help with everyday tasks. The increase in the number of people aged 65 and over is also expected to have a significant impact on the UK's transport system. The number of people aged 65 and over who are able to drive is expected to decline significantly in the coming years, which will lead to a shortage of drivers in many sectors.
